

The Lazy Squirrel

Once, there was a place called Animaland. In Animaland, there was a lazy squirrel called Busy-Tail.

One day, when Bushy-Tail was playing on his tree, he saw many mice squeaking here and there. They were storing food for winter.

When the squirrel saw what they were doing, he laughed at them, "What silly mice you are! It's just summer now. Yet, you store food for the faraway winter."

One of the hard-working mice looked at Busy-Tail seriously and said, "Bushy-Tail, hasn't anyone told you? We have to work hard so that we can have enough food to last us for the whole winter." The lazy squirrel did not believe them and keep on playing.

Days past, winter came soon and Bushy-Tail was cold and hungry. He went to the mice's houses and begged for food. The kind mice gave what Bushy-Tail wanted. From then on, Bushy-Tail stored food for winter.
